About

I have always been fascinated with the idea of bringing together different ingredients to create something completely new. In programming I found that same sense of alchemy that I love when I'm cooking. Just as there are only so many flavours, there are only so many snippets of code you can create. It's how you combine them that sets you apart.

One promise I can make: I will never serve you spaghetti code.

So if you are searching for that secret recipe that will take your projects to another level, book a table @myDMs. You won't be disappointed!
